

Vita

Dr. Joachim Lang

Director General German Aviation Association (BDL)

Dr. Joachim Lang has been the Director General of the German Aviation Association (BDL) since July 2024. Previously, he was the Managing Partner of Strategic Minds Company and Founding Partner of the Berlin Advisors Group BAG.

From 2017 to 2022, he was the Chief Executive Officer of the largest European industry association, BDI. Before that, he led the corporate representation of the DAX company EON in Berlin since 2007.

Prior to that, he held various senior positions in politics and administration, including the coordination of European policy in the Federal Chancellery, federal-state and European coordination in the CDU/CSU parliamentary group, as well as staff positions in the Secretariat of the Federal Council and in the Federal Ministry of Defense.

Joachim Lang studied law and was educated in Tübingen, Bonn, Prague and Washington D.C. Following his doctorate in law on stock companies, he also obtained a master's degree in European Studies.

Lang is the author of numerous publications on economic and legal policy topics.